Introduction

Media plays a very important role in shaping public opinion, attract people to a specific issue and mould/construct their opinion regarding different societies, those nations which media is strong can easily change the public opinion and different nations use this as a tool against their enemy etc. During the past this has been seen like in the magic bullet theory, framing theory and cultivation theory the theorists had proved that media has positive and negative effects on society and different nations use these effects either positive or negative against different nations.

Media organizations target the human by its different aspects of life like religion, culture etc. and then present/construct a shape of the society in the media to the world, those nations which media is strong can easily mould the opinion of other nations regarding their lifestyle, religion and culture a can easily present them according to their own sweet well.
This is the case with Pakistani society the west has strong media they have command and control over the media of the poor and technologically weak countries, they have their vested interests they present the good and soft image in the society and once their interests complete the present Pakistani nations as terrorists, extremists etc.

Keeping in mind this the media conglomerates also has a role and they also have their vested interests; the wars and politics are currently decided /fought through media.

Currently most of the western media which is economically very strong is busy in presenting the rough/bad image of the Muslims and Islam and perhaps they have prepared a bad image of Islam /Muslims that the western feel fear from Muslims and they feel themselves as unsafe. The western media has adopted the cultivation theory against Muslims and Islam and almost all of the channels present the Muslims bad nature according their policy.

After the 9/11 accident the show Muslims of the world as terrorists, extremists and violence creator people and based on that sympathy of the western nations they attacked Afghanistan, Iraq Libya, Syria and Vietnam, while the other important things like the political, social, economic, and food security were forgotten and nations were controlled. It indeed has created lots of difference between the west and the Muslims. After the 9/11 most of the western media covered the Afghan and Iraq attacks showing Muslims as terrorists, during that period whatever their stories were the headlines were stereotyped, the language and images that the media presented to the world create perceptions of collective Muslims identity as terrorists.

Media studies also shows that post-9/11, the media of West remained an important part in preparing a category of Muslims as homogeneous “terrorist” group, and they have layed the foundation of Islamophobia (e.g., Alghamdi, 2015; Drury, 2010; Eid & Khan, 2011; Ishak & Solihin, 2012; Kabir, 2007; Perigoe & Eid, 2014; Terzis, 2014). While there are some attempts to present an objective portrayal of Muslims, “the dominant portrayals tend to be negative” (Eid, 2014: 99). And due to the powerful western mass media some of these ideas about the Muslims and Islam are imposed on western people by the News professionals the reporters, anchors and news editors who covering the Muslims and Islam related stories even know nothing or having very little knowledge about Islam and Muslims and In most cases they mixed up local traditions of some Muslims societies with Islamic values, Thus, the western media created an erroneous image of Islam and use it to create the Collective cognition of the Western societies, which in turn adopted it as a reference to conceive Islam.“So this is the way which the western societies have adopted and the cultures have been divided in parts.

History of West and Islam
The history of west and Islam shows that the relations between the West and Islam remain twisting and also keeping in mind the current situation the situation is very similar even to critically summaries the Western view about Islam, especially in Europe, we need to go back to early Church time during that period of time Islam was considered as the opposite religion to the Christianity religion and presenting the fear of an impending invasion by the foreign force. So it is quite clear that the western media clearly give attention to the religion.

Now the Chicago print media will be compared which are “Chicago Tribune and Chicago Sun Times” in light of our research study their presentation of Islam and Muslims in Chicago print media.

Problem Statement

The current study will show that how the Chicago Press media (Chicago Tribune and Chicago Sun Times) represents the image of Muslims and Islam.

Literature Reviews
According to Jeremy Tunstall —The media are Americans.

Media studies also highlight that post-9/11, the media of West remained an important part in preparing a category of Muslims as homogeneous “terrorist” group, and they have laid the foundation of Islamophobia (e.g., Alghamdi, 2015; Drury, 2010; Eid & Khan, 2011; Ishak & Solihin, 2012; Kabir, 2007; Perigoe & Eid, 2014; Terzis, 2014). While there are some attempts to present an objective portrayal of Muslims, “the dominant portrayals tend to be negative” (Eid, 2014: 99).

It has the evident that American mass media have an important role in creating awareness amongst the masses and in shaping the opinion of public and influencing government decision-making (Shoemaker and Reese, Graber, and Cohen,).

Many of the previous studies have proved /suggested that American audience are interested in events and issues in the United States (Rubin,). And due to this interest in the international affairs and dealings, American print media mostly presents those foreign news items that have violence or are most dramatic (Rosenblum, 1979). Graber says that conflict, violence, disaster and familiar persons are the main criteria for international coverage in western mass media.

By Said, Islam is repeatedly compared with fundamentalism, which is created in the minds of western minds by the US policy makers. Said sated that Islam is misrepresented and facts are presented about Islam in the Western media which is an example of cultural differences. Said argued that representation of Islam in the western media is generally based on stereotyping and spiteful type of generalities. By his study Said observes that the Western media portray/represent Islam as a religion of sadistic and reproachful for individuals and different civilization.

The coverage of Muslims in the print media was analyzed by Justin Lewis w-e-f 2000-2008 and he has continuously monitored that how Muslims are portrayed/represented by the print media, Lewis argues that as Muslims are represented, discussed or talked about in the press is clearly negative. So, it seems to be terrorism, and it is the actual clash between Christianity and Islam. And it is the presentation of Islam as an extreme religion.

There is a dominant opposite religion view against Muslims and Islam between themany societies, but the most dangerous social and political relationships being witnessed in the USA (Powell, 2011)

Numerous scholars across disciplines have investigated media representation of Muslims and Islam through various lenses of analytical inquiry and across varying geo-political contexts, which include: North America (Ibrahim, 2010; Kumar, 2010; Said, 1978, 1980; Shaheen, 2009), Europe (Ehrkamp, 2010; Poole, 2002), Asia (Ahmed, 2010, 2012; Green, 2013), Latin America (Ahlin and Carler, 2011) and Oceanian countries (Ewart, 2012; Kabir, 2010, 2011; Patil, 2015).

Theoretical Frame Work
For finding out the results of representation of Muslims and Islam different researchers selected and used different theories in different occasions keeping in mind their research requirements. There should be a difference in nature in different theories for the research studies; my selection is framing theory, which means the framing of these newspapers and to find out that how these newspapers have framed the news stories about Muslims and Islam in Chicago print media so the selected theory will be framing theory which helps our research study. And the methodology used in this study is quantitative analysis in the content analysis.

Agenda Setting / Framing Theory

The Agenda Setting theory and its function in the Mass Media was first presented by Maxwell McCombs and Donald Shaw in 1972 in showing that how the Public Opinion is framed by the media. Both suggested that the agenda for the public sets by the media, and will adopt the method that they will control your thinking and will tell you what to think about and you can’t think by yourself in the presence of media framing. In choosing and displaying news, the editors, broadcasters, reporters and newsroom staff play an important part in shaping and presenting political reality. In framing the readers of the news not only learn about the given issue, but they are attached to feel that how much importance is given to in a news story and in which position it was presented. So in a media campaign the mass media will decide the importance of an issue and media will set the agenda of the campaign.

Framing

Main idea of framing is mostly in relevance with the agenda-setting tradition but it further expands the research having focus on the essence of the issues discussed rather than on a selected topic. The framing theory base is that media give focus/attention to certain events, issue and then place it within a field of meaning. As the framing have a greater influence therefore the concept of framing is expanded to organizations as well. In the frame which is the essence of the theory states that how an issue or news is presented to the audience which influences the choices people how to process that information. Frames organize or structure the meaning of message. The most widely uses of frames are in terms of the frame the news or media place the information they wish to convey and they are thinking to frame/influence the perceptions of news by the audience, when media adopt this methodology then it could be construed as a form of second level the agenda-setting the media as per agenda setting theory tell the audience what to think about, they also told them how to think about which is called the (second level of agenda setting, the framing theory).

In many ways framing is much closed to agenda setting theory because both focus on how media draws the public opinion and increased the public interest to specific topics and this is the way they set the agenda. While framing is a step further in the way in which the news is presented to the audience and creates a frame for the information. For the journalists this is a conscious choice and in this case the frame refers to the way in which media perform the work as gatekeepers and organize and present the topics, events and ideas that they cover.

Discussion

It is notable that the Chicago sun Times and Chicago tribune both have covered the stories keeping in mind the western authorities present day requirement and their news stories clearly reflecting the policies of the administration as both newspapers covered Muslims and Islam negatively, while the coverage of the positive news stories remain at the lower side because they presented Muslims as terrorists, extremists and fundamentalists while in some of the analyzed news items they have used inflammatory words and harsh language about Muslims and Islam which creates a fear in mind of their readers. The main targets of the reporters were the linkage of different stories like terrorist attacks, women issues, child labor and extremism with Muslims.

As the west is technologically strong and they presented the image of Muslims in their stories as the poorest, health worse condition lack of infrastructure, no natural resources, poor political conditions etc. And showing Muslims as terrorists and freedom fighters to control and rule over the world and present them as a danger for the rest of the world. And they mostly highlighted the policies of the government related to Muslim as to create an acceptance for the public. During the analysis it has been noted in both of the newspapers news items that most of the news stories have reported against Muslims and Islam and they have intentionally created hatred and fear in the mind of western people. Beside these fear and hater created information it has been noted that there were some positive news items about the Muslims and Islam, the teachings of Islam and Islamic ideology and the solidarity with Muslims of the world and the better representation of Islamic religion was presented in the news stories. As some of the reporters prepared stories...
presenting good image of Muslims but quote the good policies of the west due to which the Muslims are becoming good.

Conclusion

The Chicago Tribune and Chicago Sun Times newspapers are not the best presenters of Muslims and Islam and their news are problem creators between the Muslim and the west and due to their coverage, the differences between Muslims and the west increased day by day. According to the analyzed data and study a lot of difference has been created/constructed amongst Muslims of the world and Chicago community. Journalists are shaped by their social environmental and the negative framing journalists are openly writing against Muslims and Islam. And they presented a picture of Muslim and Islam which is clearly creating the distance between Islam and the rest and this ideology is becoming dangerous with the passage of time, the new generation consider each other as enemy while the writers target the Muslims in the western media as great danger for the humanity, thus difference is quite dangerous. During the study it has been observed that both newspapers have framed the negative stories related Muslims and Islam and Muslims are presented as a threat for the humanity, and different terrorist groups are linked with Muslims, and most of the stories have negative contents which is creating differences between west and Muslims and proving Muslims as terrorist. While in the stories related to terrorism, extremism and Muslim related issues has been pointed out in the front pages of the newspapers these negative stories create negative impressions both on Muslims and the western because the hatred will be developed from both sides and at a stage, they will not accept each other. Both the newspapers have constructed some positive news also with great care to present Chicago Muslims in positive manner in their positive stories unfortunately the main theme of both newspapers positive stories is same, and those stories are constructed in the shape that they don’t have everlasting effects. The study clearly shows that both newspapers framed the stories against Muslims and Islam and the smaller events are highlighted a great deal while the good and positive stories regarding Muslim were not given that much coverage moreover the language used against them is quiet unacceptable, the neutral stories were very less in the counting and the percentage shows that most of the neutral stories are 7 to 8 percent while the percentage of the against stories is at the higher side. In most cases the Muslims culture, politics and life style has been targeted in the negative portrayal but for the good journalism practice and to better serve the society media has to play its unbiased role.
Recommendations /Suggestions

As media is called the fourth pillar of the state and Media frames the public opinion according to their sweet well and changing public thinking in respect to their own policies. After 9/11 to onward the western Media shows Muslims as terrorist, extremist and fundamentalist and creating terror and hatred amongst its readers regarding Muslims and Islam. But the main reason behind the scene is That some personal interests of the western policy makers and media conglomerates wants to prove Muslims as complicated, terrorist, extremists and fundamentalist nation and Islam as a threat for the rest of the religions, but it is notable that all Muslims are not sharing the same equal values like culture, tradition, politics, and living standards etc. Islam is the religion of peace and love and Muslims always have peaceful relations with others either they are Muslims or non-muslims.

But as religion of peace and love western media have framed Islam as religion of terror and different terrorist groups are linked with Muslims and Islam which is quite wrong because the Muslim nations are also the main victims of terrorist activities and as a religion Islam’s main mission is peace and prosperity and extremism is not allowed in Islam, in Islam all human beings are equal. As a nation most of the Muslims are facing terrorism and it’s the duty of western media to accept the sacrifices of Muslims against terrorism.

So it is recommended that as the western media is technologically strong, having largest resources and worldwide acceptance it’s their responsibility to eliminate the difference between the Muslims and the rest and for the said purpose they should have to study the Muslims and Islam and the teaching of Islam and avoiding stereotyping and present balanced and unbiased news stories, which will show them the clear picture of Islamic society the peace love and respect.
